SUPERVISORS HOLD REGULAR MEETING

The Board of Supervisors met in regular session Monday, January 5th, there being present Wm. H. Brown presiding, Jas. T. Casey, John MacBain, Joseph M. Francis and D. E. Blackburn.

The routing of the county road through South San Francisco was taken up. Casey addressed the board, stating that no other route could be adopted than that voted for and approved by the people at the time of the bond election. Hence he would move that that route be adopted. The motion was seconded by MacBain and carried.

Edward de Niverville, representing a committee of citizens from Belmont addressed the board, stating that a movement was being secretly made to secure rights of way for the State Highway on the west side of the railroad track from Redwood City to Redwood City. Mr. de Niverville protested against such action being taken without the knowledge of the Belmont people, and during the course of his remarks became intemperate in his language, referring to the chairman as a "Southern Pacific tool, a crook and a liar."

Chairman Brown quietly referred

De Niverville to the Grand Jury now in session and assured his fellow members that whatever action was being taken was solely at the suggestion of the State Highway Commission, and that personally he would never consent to changing the road from its present route on the east side of the railroad. He had so informed the Highway Commission.

The acquiring of rights of way for the county road from Colma to Edgemar, recommended by a board of viewers appointed at a recent meeting, was taken up.

Casey stated that Mr. Thornton, through whose land the road had been routed would not accept $1,500, the amount of damages awarded to him, and had suggested that that sum be used in improving the grade of the present road. Casey called attention to the progressive attitude of Mr. Thornton on all public matters during his long residence in the county, and asked that the board avoid a legal conflict with him.

The District Attorney advised the board that a contract having been awarded for grading the road on the lines laid out by the viewers it would be impossible to change the route now.

It was also made known by the Surveyor that the present grade through the Thornton property was ten percent in places.

MacBain stated that the committee composed of himself, Casey and the chairman, had offered Thornton $1500 and Carroll $1000 for the necessary land for the road. This amount was in each case $500 in excess of the award of the board of viewers. The land occupied by the old road would revert back to the same parties.

It was ordered on motion of Blackburn, seconded by Francis, that the award of the viewers be adopted, allowing Thornton $1000 and Carroll $500. Casey voted "no" on the motion.

Deeds were presented for the right of way through the Zanon and Rosa properties for the same road and the same were referred to the District Attorney.

The clerk was directed to proceed with the opening of bids for supplies for the county farm and hospital.

A communication was received from the Morse Drug Company of San Mateo pointing out confusing irregularities in the list of drugs and hospital supplies.

Mr. Hall of the same company also addressed the board on the subject.

It was ordered on motion of Blackburn, seconded by Casey, that the list be rejected and a new one prepared to be advertised next week, same to be prepared by a disinterested committee of three.

MacBain stated that he would go to La Honda Wednesday with the surveyor to inspect a bridge that had been washed out by the recent flood. He was given authority to make such repairs as were necessary, and to also, with Blackburn, inspect and report on the bridge recently built at Coyote creek.

It was ordered on motion of MacBain, seconded by Brown, that the San Francisco creek bridge, completed November 29th, and favorably reported on by Surveyor Neuman and Surveyor McMillan of Santa Clara county, be accepted.

It was ordered on motion of MacBain, seconded by Brown, that the money raised by taxation for county development purposes be separated from the General fund and placed in the Development fund.

The clerk was directed to proceed with the opening of bids for the farm and hospital supplies, as follows:

For tobacco—J. R. Keating, $309.75. Contract awarded to Keating on motion of Francis, seconded by Blackburn.

Prunes—Levy Bros., 10¢ per pound. Rejected on motion of Francis, seconded by Blackburn, as ex-

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER

D. E. O'KEEFE, Editor and Proprietor

Direct Legislation vs. The Legislature

It is high time for the men and women of this state to be thoroughly aroused to the situation that they compose the supreme legislature of California.

At the election next fall the electors will pass or defeat roughly speaking a dozen different proposed laws.

While the expense of passing legislative acts in this way is considerable, it is far cheaper and more expeditious than is the old-fashioned method, which involves paying salaries to one hundred twenty senators and representatives and twice as many more clerks and other employees, the great expense of printing bills over and over again before final passage or veto, to say nothing of many other items of expense, which, in the total, really make legislation by legislature far more expensive than will be legislation by the people.

Take for instance the Act to provide for California a law similar to the Australian method of establishing and transferring property titles, which will be on the ballot this fall.

This law involves a great improvement which has been successfully tried out elsewhere for many years. Bills proposing the enactment of substantially this same law have been introduced at every session of the legislature for more than twenty years, and have been defeated by interested corporations and other interests which have been able to make large profits out of our present illogical and uselessly cumbersome system.

It is idle to speculate how much money this defeated legislation has cost California, and moreover, the people must themselves finally pass the greatly needed law.

Think of the many days of legislative time expended in considering this one law, and compare with that the one day which the people will take to pass this bill.

It is moreover time the electors of this state should seriously ponder the efficiency of their legislature as now composed.

It is common knowledge that any kind of work can be done by those specially trained to do the work.

Does this apply to the legislature?

Suppose the legislature were composed of about one-fourth of its present membership and of members specially trained for the work: would not this sort of legislature be a great improvement?

The state could pay adequate salaries to maintain such a legislature, and would have a right to expect creditable results.

At present we employ unskilled laborers at meagre salaries to make our laws, and then, we employ as judges the most highly specialized lawyers, at handsome salaries, to critically examine and pass upon these empirical enactments.

Interesting Notes Picked Up By Hustling Reporters in the Country Districts.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO.

Miss May Frisby of Berkeley has been chosen by the local grammar school trustees as a teacher in the department to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Lane, who had charge of the sixth grade. Andrew Hynding has almost entirely recovered from the illness which for some time past has practically incapacitated him for work, and is now able to get about as usual.

Former City Trustee M. F. Healy, who recently submitted to an operation at Dr. Plymire's hospital, has returned to his home and is practically a well man.

SAN BRUNO NOTES.

Eileen Reidy, teacher in the Lomita Park school for the past year, has accepted a position in the school district of Oakland. She has been succeeded by Miss Bella Mergenthaler of San Jose.

The year 1914 is full of promise for San Bruno's activity and its successful future. The Los Angeles real estate syndicate, the Los Angeles business methods, has selected this vicinity as offering a splendid opportunity for investment and has therefore purchased a 130-acre tract opposite Tanforan racetrack. Several teams are already employed grading streets. The property will be sold in quarter-acre and one-acre tracts, which will include all improvements—sidewalks, macadamized streets, sewers, water, gas and electricity. No lots will be offered to the public until the completion of the work. On what seems to be good authority it is stated that the syndicate has secured nearly all the land fronting on the Mission road, including park, all of which will be laid out in improved 50-foot lots. It is fortunate for San Bruno that a company capable of developing this class of property has secured it, for it means that this section will at once take its place on the map as one of the most progressive of the county.

Four of San Francisco's unemployed and floating population drifted into Colma this week in search of work. Likewise, refreshment was needed for the inner man, although experience in the city had perhaps led to the question whether, in reality, eating might not be to some extent a pastime and habit, so they compromised on the issue and decided that wine would be a strengthening tonic after their weary walk. Pedestrians were stopped on the street and with hard-luck stories that were irresistible the price of a gallon jug of the red was soon obtained. A vacant house was selected for the party, which was running high when Constable Jim Wallace answered a phone call and came to the rescue. With an empty jug a silver-handled umbrella was also found. It was afterward identified as belonging to an owner at Colma, a complaint filed in Judge Davis' court, and the party then held in custody at Redwood City.

Michael Regan passed away Wednesday at his residence in the 1st addition. Deceased was a pioneer merchant of this place. He established a dry goods business after the San Francisco fire and by his courteous treatment held his old customers as well as others during those years. A daughter, Mary Regan, is the only surviving relative. Interment took place at Holy Cross cemetery yesterday (Friday), attended by many sorrowing friends.

W. Ryan and family, who recently lost their entire household belongings in the destruction of their home in Belle Air Park, are now domiciled in the house recently owned by Mrs. Andrews in San Bruno Park.

Mrs. J. Schramm of Lomita Park claims the prize for profit earning chicken coop. From a pen of nine hens she has a showing of egg production to the amount of $39 during the last nine months of the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Steekes, former residents of San Francisco, are now making their home in San Bruno Park.

There has been a great flight of wild pigeons to this locality recently. No doubt the big crop of redberries has attracted them from the tall redwood trees of Santa Cruz mountains. They cannot be shot for the federal law protects them. The birds enjoy a closed season.

Miss Madden and Miss Teresa Reardon who have been visitors at the Macdonough stock farm, have returned to their homes.

Laben Langley, the pioneer of the county, is very sick at the Meritt hospital in Oakland with pneumonia. It was reported yesterday that he had passed away but the report was afterwards denied. His son William Langley visited him yesterday afternoon and found the old man recovering.

BELMONT NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hansen have returned from their honeymoon trip to the southern portion of the state.

Mrs. Hobbs, who has been ill at the German hospital in San Francisco for several weeks, has sufficiently recovered to be able to return to her home here.

Mrs. McGowan, wife of Rev. J. S. McGowan, rector of the Episcopal church of Monterey, and one of the best known women in the state, died last Sunday after a brief illness. She was the mother of R. H. McGowan, the well known attorney of Belmont. The news of her death was a great shock to her many friends. She was a woman of rare qualifications, her sterling worth making her beloved by all.

The news of the marriage of Miss Hazel McEvoy, of this place, and Lionel Barneson, young son of Captain Barneson of San Mateo, was quite a surprise to the friends of the young couple. They were married some weeks ago. The pretty bride is a graduate of the Sequoia Union high school at Redwood City and is an accomplished young woman, worthy of the young man she has chosen for a husband. The couple will reside in the southern part of the state.

COUNCIL HOLDS CONFERENCE WITH LIBRARY TRUSTEES

A very considerable portion of Monday evening's session of the city council was devoted to a conference with the trustees of the city library, during which many suggestions for the future improvement of this important public institution were brought out. The library board was represented at the conference by Trustees H. W. Walker, Archer Kincaid and Robert Brown, who, as soon as the minutes of City Clerk Plump had been read and approved, were invited by Chairman Merrill to seats at the council table. A suggestion of Chairman Merrill that an effort be made to secure the location of the headquarters of the proposed county branch of the state library in the rooms of the city library met with some little opposition from the library trustees. Trustee Walker especially expressing the opinion that a division of management and responsibility would tend to weaken, rather than improve, the usefulness of the local institution. A suggestion which should prove popular was the addition of facilities for the gathering of men whose inclinations lead to the indulgence in such games as chess and checkers. It was generally admitted that something of this character would enhance the value of the general public of the institution. At the same time it was shown by the library trustees that the plan would necessitate the addition of a separate room for the purpose, for which the board lacked funds. That the two departments of the city government might be kept in closer touch it was decided that annual conferences of the same character should be held, the evening of the first Wednesday in August being fixed as the date.

With the resumption of general business, Clerk Plump informed the council that the Southern Pacific Railway, taken steps to immediately comply with the demand of the city officials that necessary culverts be placed under the tracks in this city.

Manager Levy of the Edison theater presented a communication asking for permission to maintain a bill board in front of his place of business and at the same time complaining against the penalty of $20 per quarter demanded by the city for his business. The permit for the bill board was granted, with the proviso that there should be no obstruction of the sidewalk. No reduction in the license was made, the trustees expressing the opinion that the rate was none too high.

The John R. Ott Contracting Company asked for an extension of 90 days in the time for the completion of their street improvement contract. Taking into consideration the stormy condition of the weather, the request was granted.

T. C. Johnson, the council member who has completed the work on his contract for the construction of concrete curbs and sidewalks and asked that a final inspection of the work be ordered. Street Superintendent Dickey was instructed to make the desired inspection.

A draft of an ordinance granting to the board of supervisors authority for the construction of the improvement to the roadway of the County road as a part of the county highway was presented by City Attorney Mansfield. After copious discussion, which finally resulted in the addition of a clause requiring that the grades of the roadway as constructed by the county should conform to those determined by the city for the remainder of the roadway, the ordinance was introduced and given its first reading.

An ordinance was given its first reading which is designed to allow contractors or street work to close street or portions of streets during the progress of the work upon permission of the street superintendent. An ordinance designed to prevent the tampering with or injury to fire hydrants was introduced and given its first reading.

City Engineer Sears presented a final draft of the new city map, which was approved by the council and will now be sent to the printer.

The residence is surrounded with a literary atmosphere, for it was here that Gertrude Atherton, the famous novelist, began her writings and it was under the cooling shades of the wide-spreading oaks that her first novels were written, among which was the "Randolph of the Redwoods." In this novel was depicted the life and character of George Gordon, the man who established the first sugar refinery in San Francisco and who was the owner of the property on which the Stanford University buildings are located and the Stanford residence on the San Francisco creek. HIGHWAY ROUTING IS IMPORTANT

Question of Serious Local Interest Discussed by Belmont Property Owner

To the Editor, Sir:—That no question personal to one supervisor may confuse the subject so that the issue is lost sight of, allow me to explain the road matter affecting Belmont and Redwood City.

The State Highway Commission originally routed the new highway from Beresford into Redwood along the present road. Now that routing is being reconsidered, because the commission very properly desires that traffic shall not be obliged to cross the Southern Pacific tracks at grade.

Some months ago, when it was proposed to abandon the present road from Beresford to Redwood, in order to avoid the grade-crossing at Beresford, and to build a new road on the opposite side of the tracks, I requested the State Highway Commission to make an engineering inquiry as to whether it would or would not be practicable to construct an underpass at Beresford and another just north of Redwood, so that traffic could pass under the tracks and the present road be retained as a part of the State Highway.

The requested inquiry has just been completed, and it is found that the suggested underways would be practicable.

Thus there now remains this question: Shall the present road be used and two underways be built to avoid crossing at grade, or shall a wholly new four miles of road be built on the west side of the tracks? And this question the Commission is on the point of deciding.

I seriously doubt that Redwood realizes what is going on or dreams that the question about to be decided is of much importance to many of its people. So very little has been said, that the matter is not understood.

If the Highway Commission abandons its present routing and goes in for a new road west of the tracks, then the through traffic will not enter the business streets of Redwood or make use of the Mid-field road, but will go straight past on the west side of the Redwood depot. And the San Mateo traffic coming into Redwood from all points south will enter the business streets only by getting across the four sets of tracks inside the town, because the State highway will be wholly on the west side of all the tracks. That is to say, the change will subject a large majority of citizens of our own county to a great deal more danger than at present in getting into the county seat, since the State highway will lead traffic where already four tracks must be crossed to reach the courthouse and where very soon still other tracks will exist, and that is also to say, that the change will reduce land values in Redwood and the Middlefield district as well as hurt business in Redwood, since value and business are invariably directly influenced by the volume of traffic.

If, on the other hand, the highway Commission sticks to its present routing and the two underways are built, local traffic from all points south will be able to enter Redwood without crossing any tracks, and through traffic will be able to do as it chooses on reaching the underways at the city limits—either pass under the tracks and go on south by the State highway, or turn into Redwood as at present, without going under the tracks, and thus pass through the business streets as now and utilize the Middlefield road if so desiring.

The chief opposition to the underways plan comes (but of course secretly) from the Southern Pacific. Why? Because it does not want to pay for underways either in this case or in other cases for which, if underways are ordered here, this case would be a precedent.

When the Southern Pacific laid its tracks the present County road was already a very old main highway. It needlessly crossed that highway at Beresford and back again at Redwood, to save itself a little money; but under the present law it can be compelled to do today what it should have been compelled to do in the beginning—put its tracks where they won't endanger life, or construct underways or viaducts to safeguard life. It knows this very well but naturally it prefers to avoid its obligation if it can. Collis P. Huntington, who laid the rails where they today make the problem for the rest of us, is dead; but his spirit walks the earth in much its old manner of doing.

I am wondering, Mr. Editor, what the people of this county will be thinking about this case, if the Southern Pacific shall have its way with Supervisors and State Commission, when an increasing local traffic will have to face day after day the jeopardy of Redwood's Death Crossing. I fancy a good many will look back with astonishment at the ease with which a great wrong was worked out quietly against them.

EDWARD J. LIVENASH, Belmont, January 9, 1914.

A. J. Fromm has filed a complaint in the justice court against William James, charging him with a misdemeanor, to-wit, defrauding an inn keeper. James was the grade foreman for the J. R. INTERESTING DISCOURSE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The Christian Science Hall was crowded to the top of the roof last afternoon when Mr. Rathvon began his lecture on Christian Science. The speaker was introduced by W. H. Bohanan of Wellesly Park. Over four hundred people listened to the interesting lecture.

Mr. Rathvon said in part: A Christian Science lecture is not to be regarded as a complete exposition of the whole of Christian Science. The limited time assigned to it prevents consideration of many of the essentials to right living which Christian Science includes and which have made it the great protective, restorative and reformative agency of modern times.

But all these things and more are fully set forth in its text book, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, and this book I would commend to everyone who would learn for himself at first hand the principles and practice of Christian Science. A copy may be obtained through any Christian Scientist. How comprehensive and alive is that book may be seen when I name to you the headings of some of its chapters, as follows: Prayer; Atonement and Eucharist; Marriage; Christian Science versus Spiritualism; The Ideal Magistrate Unmasked; Science, Theology, Medicine; Physiology; Footsteps of Truth; Creation; Science of Being; Some Objections Answered; Christian Science Practice; Recapitulation.

All of Christian Science is contained in that book, and whatever I may here give of some of its teachings, is but a small part of what is better expressed in the book itself.

Mrs. Eddy was alertly interested in the more important of the world's daily occurrences, but her thought was ever turning from the things about us to the things beyond us, from the things that are seen to the things that are not seen. And although she was always considerate of the comfort and well-being of those about her, no more could be more loving and thoughtful. Yet Mrs. Eddy's closest companions were ever her own thoughts, which when expressed in words disclosed how steadfastly and continuously she dwelt in "the secret place of the Most High."

Healing in Christian Science is altogether by prayer. The word generally used is treatment, but it is always to be understood that a Christian Science treatment is a prayer, and just in the proportion that it is a righteous prayer, does it heal the sick and reform the sinner. It is not the prayer of supplication, but of realization; it is not asking God to do something for us but knowing that He has already done the good thing desired. It is the prayer in which gratitude is supplanting gratitude, confidence is expelling doubt and perfect love is casting out fear. It is laying at the feet of God the "heart's sincere desire, uttered or unexpressed." Then patiently listening for His "Go in peace." It is the prayer of rejoicing, of conquest, of humility, of unselfish love.

In setting up our new models of thinking we need to pull down and clear away the things that have in the past. Perhaps the most common of these is discouragement. Let me here tell you two great things that Christian Science is doing for discouraged mankind.

First—it is uncovering and proclaiming a fact about discouragement that has long been hidden; the fact that discouragement is an agency of evil, the more subtle and dangerous because so commonly recognized by its victims as a thing that is bad throughout, bad in nature, influence and in effect. There are few indeed, outside of Christian Science who shun discouragement as they would disease, weakness, incompetency or adversity, yet it opens the way for the entrance of all these things and worse.

The second great thing that Christian Science is doing for the discouraged man is in giving him an antidote for the poison of discouragement that is instant in its operation, and positive in its results. It is something that cannot be bought with money, yet is as free as the sunshine, and as blessed as the summer's rain. It is called Gratitude.

In judging the good deeds of Christian Science, the unthinking world would measure us by its own standards. It says that because we have no hospitals for the sick, no almshouse for the poor, no asylums for the demented, missionaries, no organized charities, that we are therefore neglecting the sick, the poor, the friendless. Christian Science needs no defense at all hands for its chosen methods of ministering to the needs of sinning and suffering humanity. Its splendid record of results achieved, ever increasing, is unassailable. It is true that our methods are different, but their results will measure with the best that the world has ever known. We do not condemn hospitals, or asylums or missions for those who want them. We are trying to do away with all necessity for them, and for a multitude of people Christian Science has abolished them forever. In due time we know the need for them will cease to appear, and they will then cease to be. Meanwhile, let those who see no better course turn to them, and may God speed them on their way. Every earnest practical Christian Scientist not only a physician in the highest sense of the word, but he is also a missionary, a friend to the friendless, a helper to the helpless. His work is not inclined to give publicity to his endeavors, but not on that account should he be assailed by those who would reach the same end by a different course.

County Clerk Nash has appointed registration deputies throughout the county and from now on registration of voters will go on in earnest. Only twenty voters registered at the clerk's office up until late last evening. Of these eight were Democrats, five progressives and seven Republicans. Throughout the State the Republicans are leading in registration.
